Story

Once upon a time, in a little town by the edge of a great forest, lived a curious boy named Harry and his adventurous dad. One crisp autumn afternoon, as the leaves danced in the wind, Harry's dad surprised him with a special plan.

"We're going on an adventure!" Dad said with a twinkle in his eye.

"Where are we going, Dad?" Harry asked, his eyes wide with excitement.

"To the mysterious Hollow Pool Mansion!" Dad whispered. "It's an old mansion with lots of chandeliers, high ceilings, and a big secret."

Harry clapped his hands in delight. He loved mysteries!

They packed their adventure bag with snacks, a flashlight, and a map, and set off toward the mansion. As they approached, the mansion loomed over them, its tall windows like eyes watching their every move. The iron gates creaked open, and Harry and Dad stepped inside the garden, where pumpkins glowed eerily in the fading sunlight.

As they reached the front door, it opened slowly with a loud creak. Harry's heart pounded. They stepped into a grand hall filled with sparkling chandeliers, high ceilings, and an air of mystery.
